

10 Prosperity Principles For Manifesting Abundance!

(Part 4 of 4)

Prosperity Principle #10:

Live for this moment! If you spend your life chasing your future, you'll miss the present, which is all there really is. The past and future are myths. All that exists is this moment in time. Your ultimate goal is to feel as good as possible right now and to engage in activities that will allow you to continue feeling this way. I spent a lot of my life worrying about what would or would not happen in the future, when all I was really doing was robbing myself of this precious moment we label "the present."

You've never looked at your watch and said, "Wow, it's the future/past." It's always just now. Even when you have a memory of the past, it's not the actually past. It's just an idea or interpretation you're experiencing in this present moment. It's still just "now." (Recalling a hamburger is not the same as eating one.) Thus, one of the biggest secrets of lasting abundance is to be joyful in this moment.

Now you might be thinking, "What about focusing on your outcome and vision for the future?" The reason you do this is to keep you feeling excited, confident, motivated, and productive now! Leading with Vision and intention causes you to feel as though you are living an authentic, meaningful life right now. It also sets up behaviors and events that cause you to experience similar feelings of authenticity and joy in the moments that follow.

You probably spend too much time chasing future dreams rather than recognizing all the blessings and dreams you have already created! If you chase something, it implies you don't have it, and this feeling of "lack" or "scarcity" is what you will continue to attract into your life. Nobody would purposefully makes themselves feel bad but that's what we unconsciously do and it sets us up to feel bad down the road as well.

The breakthrough comes in discovering that you are already worthy, already whole, and already prosperous right here, right now! It's recognizing and celebrating that in this moment, you already have true freedom that comes with the ability to positively interpret anything that happens, which gives you the power to feel any positive emotion you desire. You can feel as good as you want, whenever you want, as much as you want to, right now. It comes down to making a decision and you are the eternal decision maker in your life.

Suggestion:

When you spend 80% of your time accessing states of abundance, joy, and gratitude, life will mirror this back to you in the form of people, opportunities, and events that create greater feelings of abundance, joy, and gratitude! This is how you produce lasting prosperity! The world is yours. Enjoy it...
